DAVID MUNDY

MID - $559,500

I would have considered Barlow to be Fremantle's best POD player, but I am starting to see Barlow becoming more popular and appearing in more sides this year. That allowed Mundy to step up and take the title as Freo's best POD. Mundy rarely has a bad game and is part of the group of tall midfielders that are great to watch and very versatile. His big frame allows him to sneak to forward for the odd goal and his big body helps him lay plenty of tackles. Personal best average of 107 in 2011 and had a consistent year last year and averaged 103. In his prime.

Others to consider.....

Garrick Ibbotson - DEF- $509,900

He was having quality year last year before injuries forced the end to his season. He had only scored below 80 twice (both times in the 70s) until he started playing with an injury, scoring two 58s before having to sit the rest of the season out. Might not be available round 1; keep an eye on the teams.

Chris Mayne - FWD - $496,600

Ultra-consistent key forward who goaled in all but 3 of his games in 2013, for a season total of 37. Mayne is a tackle machine, averaging almost 5 tackles a game, with season highs of 13, 11 & 9. Makes plenty of pressure acts and rarely misses at goal.
