January CHEAT-SHEET

2014

ROOKIES

Jack Martin
MID - $222,300

He's 2014's Jaeger O'Meara. He's priced pretty high, but will be worth it. He's a tackling machine and strong around the stoppages.

Jesse Hogan
FWD - $217,300

This guy will be a superstar, but a knee scare in early Jan means that Hogan will be kept in cotton-wool – you can be sure the Demons will take NO risks with JH.

James Aish
MID - $187,300

As the Lions rebuild, Aish will get plenty of opportunity in his debut year. He's been a junior All-Australian twice; he's got class, composure and talent.

Luke McDonald
DEF/MID - $182,300

McDonald trained in bits and pieces with the Roos last year and has slid straight back into pre-season with ease. Love the fact he's also a DEF, but is there room for him in their side?

ROOKIES

Viv Michie
MID - $172,600

Michie killed the 2013 pre-season but could only crack one match last year for Fremantle. He's been a ball magnet for Peel Thunder, so hopefully his role at Melbourne isn't too defensive.

Ben Lennon
FWD - $162,300

The Tigers' top pick at the latest draft has been impressive during the pre-season so far and has been encouraged by captain and coach. NAB Cup crucial for him.

Daniel Menzel
FWD - $141,300

Four knee reconstructions later, Menzel is still trying hard to crack it at AFL level. He's certainly good enough, and will be back training with the main group in Feb.

Gary Rohan
FWD - $176,200

Thankfully Rohan's pre-season thus far has been plain sailing. He looked underdone in his few matches last year, but will be ripe and ready for Round 1.

MID-PRICERS

Matthew Suckling
DEF - $312,200

A bad knee heart-breakingly wrecked Suckling's 2013 but he's primed and ready to resume in 2014. At a nice price to slot into defence.

Jimmy Toumpas
MID - $240,800

Last year's number two pick was a disappointment, but has been a 'standout' on the track. With an extra pre-season under his belt, Toumpas will certainly improve.

Rhyce Shaw
DEF - $299,400

After a bad knee injury last year, Shaw has had LARS surgery and has said he's 'a certainty' for Round 1. He averaged 95 in 2009; proof that he would be great value.

SUPER GUESS

RISKY PICKS

CAREFUL!

Dale Thomas
MID - $341,800

Daisy has had some ankle troubles this pre-season and has been a long way from his best. He played only 5 times in 2013 and won't be back into full training until Feb.

Tom Bellchambers
RUC/FWD - $437,500

With key forwards Scott Gumbleton and Stewart Crameri out the door, the Bombers need tall men up front. Bellchambers has been earmarked for that spot, bad news for SuperCoach.

Nathan van Berlo
MID - $360,800

The Crows' skipper ruptured his Achilles at training in early Jan and won't be back until late season.

Jack Billings
MID/FWD - $207,300

The Saints' top pick hurt his quad badly in Colorado and has missed a lot of pre-season. Hard to see him playing too early.

PREMIUMS

Jack Steven
MID - $536,000

After his first B&F in 2013, Steven has been the Saints' standout, especially during their Colorado training camp. At 23 he can only get better.

Lance Franklin
FWD - $487,700

Will Buddy return to premium status? His 2013 was poor, but the Swans' plan to isolate him should work in his favour. Too cheap to ignore?

Patrick Dangerfield
MID/FWD - $609,000

Due to Dual Position Status (DDP), Dangerfield will be one of the most picked players, and rightly so. Just an absolute star.

Sam Mitchell
DEF/MID - $562,000

As with Dangerfield above, the ability to select Mitchell in a position other than midfield makes him a no-brainer. Has started the pre-season well too, very keen on back-to-back.
